

*****
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.
 This is the first four-story building for Goldfield, and is one of the handsomest, architecturally in the west. It is the home of the First National Bank, and many of the leading law firms of the city. The building is of stone and pressed brick, with elevator and all modern accessories and cost about $60,000. It occupies a prominent corner at Main and Ramsey, diagonally across from the Cook bank.
 *****

*****
GOLDFIELD'S MAGNIFICENT HOTEL.
 The Hotel Goldfield is one of the finest hotels between Denver and the coast. It is by all odds the finest hostelry in Nevada and was built entirely from money taken out of the mines of Goldfield. The wealthy builders were the owners of the famous Hayes-Monnette lease on the Mohawk—Messrs. Hayes, Monnette, Smith and Benedict, and Al. G. Myers and Tom Murphy, two of the first men in camp, and James Davis, of the firm of Loftus & Davis. The hotel cost $350,000, is built of brick and stone, and the interior is modern in every respect. It is the wonder and admiration of every visitor to Goldfield. Recently, George Wingfield became a heavy owner in the hotel.
 *****

*****
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
 Goldfield has several churches, representing nearly all the leading denominations, and the services are largely attended. Besides this church, the first completed in the district, there is in course of construction a splendid large Catholic church, a stone Episcopal church, a Methodist and a Baptist church, and the Christian Scientists are already occupying their cosy structure.
 *****

*****
GOLDFIELD SCHOOLS.
 Goldfield boasts of as fine schools as any community of the same size in the United States. Unlike many mining communities, Goldfield is filled with families who find church and school facilities here to meet their highest requirement. Goldfield pioneers laid the foundation for the present excellent school system almost with the first surveys of the camp.
 The school buildings number four, all built of stone and brick with the most modern heating and ventilating apparatus. The High school was built at a cost of $103,000; the Cedar street school at a cost of $25,000; the West Side or Mary McLaughlin school, named after Goldfield's first teacher, cost $6,000; the Sunday avenue school cost $35,000, so altogether Goldfield has $169,000 invested in school buildings.
 There were 875 children enrolled in the schools at the beginning of the January term, the largest number ever registered. There are twenty-seven teachers employed in the various grades, from kindergarten to the high school.
 *****

